Introduction

About our Styleguide

The aim of this Brand Styleguide is to introduce you to the CONNECTED MENA brand and serve as a resource to provide inspiration, impact and consistency across all communications.

In the following pages, you will see how the Brand Strategy informs everything we do. Everything we do is aligned to our vision and mission. You'll find specific direction on how to use the Brand Identity toolkit, as well as examples for how these tools come together in some example applications.

Use these as the creative building blocks for what you're working on. Remember that everything we produce should feel like it's part of the same visual family of designs you see in here.

Refer back to this document before any design or communications work to refresh your memory and inspire your project. Most of all, have fun and always ask yourself, what's the most engaging way I can communicate the message using our tools?

Glossary

As you navigate this document and the marketing and design services, you may come across the terms outlined on the following pages. These definitions are provided for your reference and clarity.

General Design Terms

The portion of a website page visible before scrolling.

Brand Identity

The visual and conceptual elements that define a brand (logo, colours, typography, iconography, etc.).

Brand Strategy

A long-term plan designed to build and establish a brand’s identity, positioning, and overall market presence.

Concept

The main idea or theme behind a design.

Composition

The arrangement of elements in a design to create balance and harmony.

Comm/s

An abbreviation for "communication". It encompasses the various methods and tools used by a company to communicate with its target audience and promote its products/services.

CTA

An abbreviation for “Call To Action”. A button or sentence guiding the audience to act.

Hierarchy

The arrangement of elements in order of importance, guiding the viewer’s eye.

Storytelling

Using narratives to create emotional connections in branding.

Raster Graphics

Pixel-based images that can lose quality when resized (e.g, JPEG, PNG).

Responsive Design

A web design approach that adjusts to different screen sizes.

Wireframe

A basic, low-fidelity layout showing the structure of the communication and design elements.

Vector Graphics

Images created using mathematical paths (scalable without losing quality).

Common File Types

.ai	Adobe Illustrator file.	.otf	OpenType Font. A font file format developed by Adobe and Microsoft, that is widely used for digital typography.
.ase	Adobe Swatch Exchange file.
.eps	Encapsulated PostScript. EPS files primarily store vector graphics; they can be resized without losing quality.	.pdf	Portable Document Format. A document format developed by Adobe that preserves a file’s layout, fonts, images, and formatting across different devices and operating systems.
.gif	Graphics Interchange Format. An image file format that supports both static and animated images.	.psd	Photoshop Document file.
.jpg	Joint Photographic Experts Group. A widely used raster image format.	.png	Portable Network Graphics. A raster image format that supports lossless compression and transparency.
.mov	A video file format developed by Apple and used for storing high-quality video, audio, and multimedia content.	.svg	Scalable Vector Graphic. An image format that uses vector graphics rather than raster graphics.
.mp4	A digital video file format that supports high-quality video, audio, subtitles, and metadata while maintaining small file sizes and broad compatibility across devices and platforms.	.webp	An image file format developed by Google that uses advanced compression techniques to reduce file sizes while maintaining high image quality.

Brand Strategy

What is Brand Strategy?

Brand strategy is the foundation that defines what a brand stands for and how it shows up in the world.

It connects purpose and vision with the practical tools that guide communication, design, and decision-making.

A strong brand strategy clarifies positioning, shapes identity, and creates consistency across every touchpoint — from messaging to marketing to experiences. For CONNECTED MENA, brand strategy ensures we are more than a logo or tagline:

It makes us a distinctive, credible challenger brand with a clear role, voice, and direction that unites all audiences around a shared purpose.

We are a Challenger Brand

A challenger brand is defined not by size but by mindset. It challenges category conventions, refuses to accept the status quo, and reframes the rules to create new possibilities. Challenger brands win attention and loyalty by being bold, distinctive, and purpose-led.

Challenger Archetypes

There are different archetypes of challenger brands — each with its own way of challenging the norm. Some disrupt through innovation, others democratise access, some stand as local heroes, and others take a missionary stance to drive systemic change.

We are a Hybrid Model

For CONNECTED MENA, we identified a hybrid challenger brand model.

Role in the Brand Strategy

These archetypes guide how CONNECTED MENA express itself — shaping its voice, campaigns, and identity. They ensure our messaging challenges outdated systems, inspires new possibilities, and stays rooted in the region while connecting to a global conversation.

Lead Archetype:

MISSIONARY CHALLENGER

Driven by the higher purpose of transforming education in the MENA region through AI and cultural relevance.

With shades of:

DEMOCRATISER

Making AI literacy and quality education accessible to all.

LOCAL HERO

Rooted in MENA culture, reclaiming its knowledge and potential.

The Brand Model

What is a Challenger Brand?

A challenger brand is defined not by size but by mindset. It challenges category conventions, refuses to accept the status quo, and reframes the rules to create new possibilities. Challenger brands win attention and loyalty by being bold, distinctive, and purpose-led.

Challenger Archetypes

There are different archetypes of challenger brands — each with its own way of challenging the norm. Some disrupt through innovation, others democratise access, some stand as local heroes, and others take a missionary stance to drive systemic change.

Our Brand Model

Audience messaging priorities

Our audience messaging priorities ensure that ConnectED MENA communicates with clarity, relevance, and impact across all stakeholder groups.

They translate the brand model into practical guidance for how we speak to learners, educators, policymakers, investors, and partners.

Each priority is aligned with our challenger brand archetypes — Missionary (driving systemic change), Democratiser (scaling access and equity), and Local Hero (rooted in MENA identity).

By mapping audience needs against these archetypes, we ensure our messaging resonates, builds trust, and demonstrates how ConnectED MENA delivers real outcomes for each group.

Audience		Key Messaging Priority	What We Say In Communications
	Learners (school & university, lifelong learners)	Unlock potential, personalized learning, culturally relevant content, hands-on AI literacy	Missionary (lead) → purpose-driven, empowering learners Democratiser → access for all Local Hero → connects learning to MENA culture
	Parents	Quality learning tools, measurable outcomes, cultural relevance.	Missionary (lead) → enabling children’s growth Democratiser → accessible, inclusive solutions Local Hero → culturally meaningful learning
	Investors	High-growth sector, measurable impact, scalable innovation, ROI	Missionary (lead) → driving purpose-led sector change Democratiser → scaling access and reach Local Hero → supporting region-specific impact
	Tech / EdTech Community	Collaboration, innovation opportunities, ecosystem access (AI Lab).	Missionary (lead) → purpose-driven innovation Democratiser → accessible collaboration and tools Local Hero → solving regional challenges
	Educators	Training, frameworks, tools for outcome-driven teaching, practical implementation.	Missionary (lead) → transforming teaching practice Democratiser → inclusive access to training Local Hero → contextualized for MENA culture
	Policy Makers	Evidence-based research, AI literacy frameworks, policy roadmaps.	Missionary (lead) → systemic education reform Democratiser → inclusive frameworks Local Hero → regionally relevant solutions
	Education Institutions	Partnerships, MENA-specific insights, research collaboration.	Missionary (lead) → purpose-led collaboration Democratiser → inclusive access to frameworks Local Hero → culturally contextualized solutions

The Role of Brand Identity Tools

Brand identity tools are the building blocks of CONNECTED MENA's visual and verbal expression. They turn strategy into a consistent system — logos, colours, type, patterns, imagery, and tone — that work together to create recognition, coherence, and impact.

These tools ensure the brand always feels unified, whether applied to a social media post, a report, or an international event.

More than design assets, they are practical instruments for anyone creating brand communications. Used correctly, they safeguard clarity, reinforce our challenger positioning, and make sure every piece of work — big or small — contributes to the same bold, human, and credible story.

2.0 Creative Platform

The creative platform is the internal big idea, or bridge, that translates our brand model into a visual and verbal brand expression.

Sub Brand Logos

We use a masterbrand architecture, which means the CONNECTED MENA logo always sits at the center of our identity. Sub-brand names are placed beneath it using our brand font, Season Serif.

The primary CONNECTED MENA logo should be used most often. This reinforces that CONNECTED MENA is the unifying ecosystem that binds together many activities and initiatives.

Creating additional sub-brand logos is possible, but should be approached with care. Too many variations risk diluting the strength of the brand. Sub-brands should only be developed for core, ongoing pillars that directly drive our mission forward — not for one-off events or temporary projects.

Small Logo

We use the Small Logo for smaller use instances such as social media profile pictures and website favicons.

Logo Clearspace

Whenever you use the logo, it should be surrounded with clear space to ensure its visibility and impact. No graphic elements of any kind should invade this zone. This zone is called “Logo Clearspace”.

To work out Logo Clearspace, take the height of the “E” from the logo text and measure from the main base of the text.

Co-Branding

When working with partners, co-branding should present both brands with clarity, balance, and consistency.

Principles:

- Multiplication Symbol for Joint Ventures:
When we are creating the design and marketing artwork for a joint venture — or when we are leading the partnership — we use a multiply symbol (×) in a thin keyline between the logos. This reinforces both the equality of the partnership and the added value our brand brings across the education ecosystem.
- Equal Presence: Each logo should occupy the same visual space to ensure a sense of balance and fairness.
- Black & White First: Wherever possible, use black and white versions of the logos. This keeps the design feeling premium, consistent, and avoids the distraction of multiple brand colours competing for attention.
- Colour as an Exception: If a partner's logo must appear in its original colour, this is acceptable. However, black and white should remain the default for multiple logo lock-ups to preserve a clean and cohesive presentation.

Co-Branding

Layout Guidance

Alignment: Logos should be aligned along a common baseline or vertical axis. Left-aligned or centre-aligned lock-ups may be chosen depending on context, but consistency across applications is key.

Spacing: Maintain clear space between each logo, equal to at least the “E”-height of our wordmark. This prevents crowding and ensures visual breathing room.

Order: Where legally required, follow contractual guidelines for logo order. In the absence of requirements, our logo should appear first (left or top) with partner logos arranged sequentially.

Grid & Proportion: Use a shared grid system to ensure logos scale proportionally. Avoid stretching or altering aspect ratios — resizing should always be uniform.

Lock-up Options: Horizontal lock-up: logos placed side by side, aligned on a common baseline or centreline are preferred.

Logo Colour Usage

For maximum legibility, a specific colour of our logo must be used when placed on different backgrounds. Use the charcoal logo for bright and white backgrounds, and the white logo on dark and image backgrounds.

The logo must only be used over simple areas of imagery. Avoid using directly over people’s faces or imagery that feels very busy with many colours or elements close together. You can check by seeing if the logo and symbol are easy to read if you squint to defocus your eyes.

Ecosystem Gradients

We use different shades of green to create our energising ecosystem gradients.

The different colours blend together harmoniously, in the same way CONNECTED MENA support different parts of the education ecosystem for a united vision.

There has been a subtle grain effect added to create a grounded and human look and feel.

We mainly use the ecosystem gradients for backgrounds and overlaying on imagery in design comms. Making communications stand out and be more ownable.

Ecosystem Gradients: Pre-Made Templates

We have a set of pre-made transparent ecosystem gradients to streamline the design process.

Use the fuller gradients for full-bleed backgrounds, and the lighter gradients as overlays on imagery.

For layout inspiration and best practices, see page 36.

Ecosystem Gradients: Make Your Own

We also provide a set of individual colour gradients that can be layered to create unique combinations.

Gradients should remain soft and seamless: avoid harsh lines or abrupt transitions, especially in background applications.

For layout inspiration and best practices, see page 36.

Illustrations

Our hero illustrations are designed to communicate messages in a way that feels both intelligent and instantly recognisable. They draw directly from the CONNECTED MENA colour palette, with blended gradients that bring depth and vibrancy. This approach reinforces our creative platform of ‘energising the ecosystem’.

For layout inspiration and best practices, see page 36.

Icons

Our icons are simplified, bespoke, visual symbols and can be used on any piece of communication to reinforce messaging.

The icon stroke weight should be kept as a thinner stroke where possible, but the exact stroke weight will depend on the messaging around the icon.

The exact icon size will depend on the comm, but we mostly use icons in smaller instances.

Icons should have enough spacing around them to be clearly visible.

Icon Colours

Photography: Macro MENA

Macro MENA photography showcases the MENA region through cityscapes and landscapes. It enables us to always put MENA at the forefront of our visuals.

Art Direction:

- Urban vibrancy with wide panoramic compositions
- Showing significant, recognisable an relevant areas
- Natural day light
- Images should lean into earth-tone palettes that echo the region’s geography
- Avoiding strong graphic elements or objects so headlines can be added easily over the top
- Where relevant, featuring the region a piece of communication is for. E.g. a presentation for Cairo educators would feature an image of Cairo.

Photography: Micro MENA

Micro MENA photography showcases the MENA people through portrait and reportage photography. It enables us to always put MENA at the forefront of our visuals.

We can show all audiences of the ecosystem: Learners, Parents, Educations, Policy Makers, Tech teams and investors.

Art Direction:

- Capturing people in a moment of action
- Natural expressions
- Not looking at camera
- Natural lighting
- Bright, natural looking lighting where possible
- Clear lighting on the face
- Warm colour tones
- Medium to high contrast
- Non-staged or posed
- Differential focus — areas close to the camera or far away from the camera blurred to show depth of field
- Areas of green in the images is a benefit.

Infographics

Our infographic design style is stylised and minimal, reflecting our research-driven and evidence-based approach.

Visuals should simplify complex information, making data clear and accessible. Use clean lines, a minimal selection of the CONNECTED MENA colour palette, and minimal typography to ensure clarity and cohesion across all infographics.

Funnel Sans and ABC Diatype Arabic should be used for most data/numerals.

Season Serif and ABC Diatype Arabic can be used for feature data.

Design Layouts

The following examples demonstrate how text, imagery, infographics, and gradients can work together in line with our brand style. These are not strict templates, but inspirational starting points to guide consistent, cohesive, and on-brand design. Use them as reference when creating new communications, ensuring every piece feels clear, impactful, and visually engaging.

Gradients

- Gradients may be used as full-bleed backgrounds or as subtle overlays on imagery, typically starting from the edges of the frame.
- Apply full-bleed gradients sparingly, so they enhance rather than overwhelm. Their role is to support visual clarity and preserve the integrity of the design system.

Imagery

- Images can be used full-bleed for maximum impact or inset for more structured layouts.
- Full-bleed imagery should be prioritised where appropriate, as it delivers the strongest emotional and visual presence.
- Gradient overlays on imagery should be used selectively — for example, on cover or breaker pages in presentations, or on hero images at the top of web pages.

Brand Voice

The tone of voice acts as the bridge between brand strategy and communication. For CONNECTED MENA, it ensures every headline, post, or campaign expresses the missionary drive, democratiser access, and local hero pride that underpin the brand model. Using a question-led, provocative style allows the brand to:

- Spark curiosity and dialogue in a sector often dominated by abstract or generic messaging.
- Position itself as both visionary and practical — challenging systems while offering real solutions.
- Invite stakeholders (learners, educators, investors, policymakers) to be part of the change.

01 Boldly Inquisitive

02 Human & Regional

03 Credible & Impact-Oriented

Brand Voice Principles

01

Boldly Inquisitive

Lead with big, thought-provoking questions that challenge the status quo and invite dialogue.

EXAMPLES

Ask the big questions others aren’t asking:

- What if MENA led the way in equitable education?
- Who ensures learning outcomes—not just promises—for MENA?
- Can AI literacy become every student’s right?
- What if schools prepared innovators, not just employees?
- How do we thrive when the future is unpredictable?

02

Human & Regional

Keep learners, educators, and the MENA context at the center — always grounded in real people, cultures, and needs.

EXAMPLES

Keep learners, educators, and MENA’s context at the centre:

- What if every learner had the tools to succeed?
- How do we reclaim MENA’s role in knowledge?
- What if classrooms reflected culture, not copies?
- How do we support teachers at the core?
- What happens when local challenges drive solutions?

03

Credible & Impact-Oriented

Balance vision with evidence — every provocation is backed by research, AI, and measurable outcomes.

EXAMPLES

Balance vision with evidence and outcomes:

- How do we turn evidence into impact?
- What ensures access without losing quality?
- How can AI literacy be proven and practical?
- What makes reform measurable, not just rhetorical?
- How do we deliver real outcomes, not empty promises?

How to use:
Copy the template below, insert the relevant theme, and paste it into ChatGPT (or any AI writing tool).

Template:
“Write 10 short headline options in the style of CONNECTED MENA. They should be written as provocative questions and follow these principles:

- 1. Boldly Inquisitive — challenge the status quo,
- 2. Human & Regional — keep learners, teachers, and MENA context at the centre,
- 3. Credible & Impact-Oriented — back ambition with evidence and outcomes.

The content to communicate is: [insert topic].”

10 Ready-To-Use Example Topic Prompts

AI Literacy

“...The content to communicate is: scaling equitable access to AI literacy across MENA.”

Teacher Empowerment

“...The content to communicate is: supporting teachers with tools, training, and AI-driven insights.”

Policy & System Reform

“...The content to communicate is: helping governments and policymakers build future-ready education ecosystems.”

Learner Outcomes

“...The content to communicate is: improving real learning outcomes for students across MENA.”

Cultural Relevance

“...The content to communicate is: reclaiming MENA’s cultural and intellectual heritage in education.”

Equity & Access

“...The content to communicate is: ensuring every learner, regardless of background, has access to quality education.”

Investment Opportunity

“...The content to communicate is: why investing in MENA’s education ecosystem is both impactful and high-growth.”

Innovation & Ecosystem

“...The content to communicate is: how ConnectED MENA’s AI Lab, AI9 Academy, and policy work connect into one ecosystem.”

Subheadlines

Subheadlines support the provocative question by grounding it in evidence, clarifying the promise, and pointing directly to the solution CONNECTEDED MENA provides.”

Here are 5 headline + subheadline examples you can use as references for campaigns, all aligned with Connected MENA’s brand model and question/answer tone of voice.

These follow the formula:

- Headline (question):
Bold, provocative, human-centred.
- Subheadline (answer):
Clear, evidence-based, outcome-driven, with Connected MENA positioned as the solution.

1. AI Literacy

Headline:
How do we prepare learners for an AI-driven world?

Subheadline:
With AI9 Academy — a framework equipping teachers and students with essential AI skills.

4. Policy & Systems

Headline:
How can MENA build future-ready education systems?

Subheadline:
We connect research, AI, and policy to deliver measurable outcomes across the ecosystem.

2. Equity & Access

Headline:
What if quality education wasn’t tied to privilege?

Subheadline:
CONNECTED MENA delivers equitable tools and programs for every learner, regardless of background.

5. Regional Pride & Global Standards

Headline:
What if MENA led the world in education equity?

Subheadline:
By blending local cultural context with global best practices, we set a new standard for learning.

3. Teacher Empowerment

Headline:
Who supports the people shaping every classroom?

Subheadline:
Our AI-powered platforms reduce burdens and give teachers the tools to amplify their impact.

Brand Applications

Disclaimer:

Please note that some photography shown is for art direction reference only, for phase 1.0 of the Brand Styleguide. It should be replaced with ownable imagery by CONNECTED MENA.

The role of visual Brand Applications

Visual marketing applications are where CONNECTED MENA's brand identity comes alive. They turn strategy into expression — making the brand recognizable, consistent, and impactful across every touchpoint. While the brand model defines who we are, visual applications show that identity in action.

They create a shared design language — demonstrating how logos, colours, type, imagery, and graphics work together across digital and physical platforms. This ensures that whether it's a website, social post, or event backdrop, the brand feels unified and distinct.

Equally, they highlight cohesion. No element exists alone: type supports color, imagery reinforces voice, and layouts guide the audience experience.

Together, these tools express CONNECTED MENA's role as a challenger brand — bold, human, evidence-driven, and rooted in MENA while meeting global standards.

This section introduces the visual intentions of the brand and shows their application, providing both inspiration and rules so the brand remains consistent, flexible, and powerful.
